Over 600 supporters

celebrated with LAF at our 39th Annual Benefit in Washington, DC.

$25,000 awarded

through the LAF Research Grant in Honor of Deb Mitchell to investigate how designers can use materials specifications to combat forced labor in material supply chains.

A Message from LAF CEO Barbara Deutsch

2024 was a very rewarding year as we saw tangible fruits from some of LAF's long-term, strategic investments.

Our Landscape Performance Series case studies, which quantify the measurable benefits of landscape solutions, were used by our partners to make the case for nature-based solutions on the world stage at COP29. Past LAF Fellows continued to lead important conversations in and outside of the discipline, bringing about advances in practice and positively impacting decisions on climate and carbon, healing spaces, inclusive design, and equity. Landscape Journal published an LAFled collaborative article and call-to-action for practice-based research.

LAF Ignite continued its planned expansion as we welcomed 5 new students in the third cohort, bringing the total number of participants to 13. We also celebrated a milestone when the first three students completed the multi-year program upon receiving their landscape architecture degrees! I am so proud of this unique and transformative program and extend my heartfelt thanks to all who have supported it as internship providers, mentors, and donors to LAF. Together we are accelerating the pace and scale at which the discipline takes action to recruit, recognize, and develop talent.

Thank you for being part of the LAF community to lead the way and make these outcomes possible. We know that the energy, optimism, systems thinking, and unique professional skills of landscape architects continue to be needed now more than ever in our rapidly changing and uncertain world.

LAF's 2024 Leadership Circle recognizes those who made total contributions of $1,000 or more to LAF during that year. The generosity of these donors provides the core financial support for fulfilling LAF's mission.
